STAY HOME!

STAYING HOME TO AVOID VIRUS

Staying home is not always easy but statistics have already shown a reduction in the number becoming infected. We thank everyone for doing their parts and enduring the lock-down. We hope that folks are getting by okay despite perhaps being temporarily out of work. We know the economy is taking a big hit and will be really glad when the U.S. is ahead of this virus and we can all get back to the norm. I do fear that this has "jump-started" a change in the way we commerce. Some business' that have adapted the remote-business model may adopt it as a permanent and less expensive way to operate.

SPRING IS IN THE AIR – STUCK HOME

There have been a lot of folks engaged in front yard and back yard activities. The roads have less traffic. There is almost a "TV" family vibe. However, we are waiting in lines for groceries to maintain a personal minimum six-foot perimeter. Toilet paper and certain other items are treated like gold. Silly really. I mean, in terms of groceries and such, there is no need for panic. There is only a need for hyper-caution against the virus, or any virus actually. Gee, washing hands, what an interesting idea huh. LOL

MOTHERS DAY & FATHERS DAY

Forget not your Mom or your Dad on their holidays. Do you know what they really want this year? Have you found the perfect thing and have been waiting to give it to them? Well, ask them! I am sure your Mothers and Fathers will be glad to tell you exactly what they would like.

A HAIKU FOR MY DEPARTED POPS

All this craziness

Laugh at the insanity
